

Dr Sudhi Ankarath
UK

Dr Ankarath works as a consultant in Orthopaedics at Huddersfield Royal Infirmary, U.K, specialising in Hand and Wrist. After his graduation and postgraduate training in India, he completed further Specialist Registrar training in Orthopaedics in the Yorkshire rotation in U.K. He developed his interest in upper limb surgery by working with Prof John Stanley in Wrightington hospital, U.K, and completed AO fellowship in trauma from Germany. He holds an Honorary Senior Lecturer post in University of Leeds. He is actively involved in education and training as a member of the panel of examiners to the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh and a member of the British Hand Diploma examination panel. He is a faculty member of the AO long bone courses and Hand and Wrist courses.